

All environmental aspects have to be studied in order to know the environmental impacts during the life cycle of an underground space,

In most countries this study is done through environmental impact assessment ( EIA, EIEP, EIS...)

More & more Life cycle assessment will be able to guides owners and designers in the incidence of environment in the design of an underground structure.

To know more:

- ITA Working group 15 "Underground and Environement" Publications