

In central areas of large towns, the placement of infrastructure services into tunnels is associated with the need for a comprehensive solution to the regeneration of technical infrastructure and boosting its capacity.

These underground structures (in particular deep supply utility tunnels) have been incorporated into general extensions plans for historic centres and large urban concentrations.

Examples:

- Development of utility tunnels in the Czech republic.
- Monaco
- Geneva